Charleston Fashion Week® Announces 2018 Dates for March 13 – 17
Charleston Fashion Week to help launch, strengthen fashion careers; again bringing over $3 million impact to the local Charleston economy

CHARLESTON, S.C. – Charleston Fashion Week® (CFW) will kick off its twelfth year March 13 – 17, 2018 in historic downtown Charleston. Held under the tents in Marion Square and throughout the city, the five-day event will feature Charleston’s finest boutiques, emerging designers and undiscovered models from across the country as well as the hottest featured-designers in the world of fashion. Look for new activities and public interaction beyond the runway.

“Going into year twelve, we’re excited to implement new and exciting events and expand our footprint beyond Marion Square,” said Naomi Russell, executive director of CFW. “Charleston Fashion Week made a local economic impact of over $3 million, last year. We’re proud to say that not only do we showcase talent, we also help strengthen the community.”

The annual Emerging Designer and the Rock the Runway™ model competitions support and showcase a community of up-and-coming and new talent. Both are proven platforms for aspiring fashion designers and models to jumpstart careers. Nationwide searches for each of the 2018 competitions launch this September.
